Marvin Reddick

Author of The Real Blues

Thursday, November 13, 2025

Cutrer Mansion

Doors open at 5pm

Talk begins at 5:30pm

Light refreshments will be served

Marvin Reddick is a non-fiction history writer who enjoys bringing out the unconventional perspective on Mississippi Delta blues music and Culture. Born and raised in the Mississippi Delta, in and around blues music and culture, Marvin's father was a blues musician and his paternal grandmother operated "JookJoints." Seems quite natural that Marvin would also have a love for music; he's a musician and soulful blues vocalist. He started out writing short novels as a young teen and now writes passionately on his unique take on blues history and culture. When not writing, Marvin is a fitness instructor, martial artist and an avid reader.

Books can be bought on Amazon now at: The Real Blues: Reddick, Marvin C., Golden, Cynthia J.: 9798315388197
Books will also be sold at the Cutrer Mansion that night while supplies last.
